Welsh House Farm School may collect this information in a variety of ways. For example, data might be collected through application forms, obtained from passports or other identity documents such as driving licences; from forms completed by employees at the start of or during employment; from correspondence with employees; or through interviews, meetings or other assessments.

In some cases, Welsh House Farm School may collect personal data about its employees from third parties, such as references supplied by former employers, information from employment background check providers, information from credit reference agencies and information from criminal records checks permitted by law. In most cases, Welsh House Farm School will only seek information from third parties with the prior consent of the employee(s) in question.

Why We Collect and Use This Information

We use the workforce data to:

Welsh House Farm School needs to process personal data to enter into an employment contract with its employees and to meet its obligations under employee employment contracts. For example, Welsh House Farm School needs to process employee personal data to provide an employment contract, to pay an employee in accordance with their employment contract and to administer entitlements such as pension benefits.

In some cases, Welsh House Farm School needs to process data to ensure that it is complying with its legal obligations. For example, it is required to check an employee's entitlement to work in the UK, to deduct tax, to comply with health and safety laws.

Processing employee data allows Welsh House Farm School to:

- Run recruitment and promotion processes;
- Maintain accurate and up-to-date employment records and contact details (including details of who to contact in the event of an emergency), and records of employee contractual and statutory rights;

- Operate and keep a record of disciplinary and grievance processes, to ensure acceptable conduct within the workplace;
- Operate and keep a record of employee performance and related processes, to plan for career development, and for succession planning and workforce management purposes;
- Operate and keep a record of absence and absence management procedures, to allow effective workforce management and ensure that employees are receiving the pay or other benefits to which they are entitled;
- Obtain occupational health advice, to ensure that Welsh House Farm School complies with duties in relation to individuals with disabilities, meet its obligations under health and safety law, and ensures that employees are receiving the pay or other benefits to which they are entitled;
- Operate and keep a record of other types of leave (including maternity, paternity, adoption, parental and shared parental leave), to allow effective workforce management, to ensure that Welsh House Farm School complies with duties that employees are receiving the pay or other benefits to which they are entitled;
- Ensure effective general HR and business administration;
- Provide references on request for current or former employees;
- Respond to and defend against legal claims; and
- Fulfil any statutory reporting obligations.

Some special categories of personal data, such as information about health or medical conditions, are processed to carry out employment law obligations (such as those in relation to employees with disabilities). Where Welsh House Farm School processes other special categories of personal data, such as information about ethnic origin, sexual orientation, religion or belief, this is for the purposes of equal opportunities monitoring. Data that Welsh House Farm School uses for these purposes is anonymised or is collected with the express consent of employees, which can be withdrawn at any time. Employees are entirely free to decide whether to provide such data and there are no consequences of deciding against this.

The lawful basis on which we use this information

Our lawful basis for collecting and processing workforce information is defined in GDPR under Article 6. The following elements of the article apply:

- a) Consent: where you have given Welsh House Farm School clear consent to process your personal data for a specific purpose
- b) Contract: the processing is necessary for a contract you have with Welsh House Farm School
